

#1 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

How many parts does the CELPIP-General Listening section have in total?

Answer

The Listening section has 6 parts, contributing to 38 scored questions overall. Part 1 (Problem Solving) is the first of these.

#2 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What is the general topic of Listening Part 1?

Answer

Part 1 presents a single-speaker monologue, often voicemail-style, in which the speaker faces a practical problem, such as a scheduling conflict or a broken item, and describes the options they considered before deciding. You then answer questions about the situation and the chosen solution.

#3 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

How many times does the audio play in Listening Part 1?

Answer

The audio plays only once for every part of the Listening section, including Part 1. There is no replay, so focused first-listen attention matters.

#4 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What answer format is used in Listening Part 1?

Answer

Like every Listening part, Part 1 uses 4-option multiple choice questions labelled A through D. You select the single best answer for each question.

#5 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does the phrase "to work around a conflict" mean in a Part 1 conversation?

Answer

It means to find a way to manage two competing commitments, such as adjusting a schedule so two events no longer overlap. This phrase often signals the problem-solving moment in the dialogue.

#6 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What is a useful strategy for the moments before Part 1 audio starts?

Answer

Quickly skim the answer options for the first one or two questions so you know what details to listen for, such as names, times, or reasons. This primes your attention before the single playback begins.

#7 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What common trap appears in Part 1 questions about the final decision?

Answer

Speakers often mention and then reject one or two options before settling on the real solution. A common trap is choosing an option that was discussed but ultimately turned down.

#8 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does "to reschedule" mean, and why does it matter for Part 1?

Answer

It means to change something to a different time or date. Part 1 conversations frequently involve rescheduling an appointment, meeting, or event, so listen for the new agreed time.

#9 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

How long is the Listening section overall, including all 6 parts?

Answer

The Listening section runs approximately 46 to 55 minutes in total, covering the audio for all 6 parts plus time to answer the questions.

#10 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

Why should you avoid trying to write down every word during Part 1?

Answer

Because the audio plays only once, trying to transcribe everything causes you to miss the next sentence. Instead jot short keywords like names, numbers, and the final decision.

#11 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does "to compromise" mean in the context of a Part 1 dialogue?

Answer

It means each side gives up part of what they want to reach an agreement. Part 1 problems are often resolved through a compromise rather than one person getting their full original preference.

#12 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What kind of setting is typical for a Listening Part 1 conversation?

Answer

Everyday practical settings are typical, such as a voicemail about a broken appliance, a car problem, a cancelled flight, or a childcare mix-up, where the speaker explains what happened and how they resolved it.

#13 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What trap involves numbers in Part 1 listening questions?

Answer

Conversations may mention several numbers, such as times or amounts, before settling on the final one. Test takers sometimes select an earlier number instead of the corrected or agreed-upon figure.

#14 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does the phrase "that won't work for me" signal in a Part 1 conversation?

Answer

It signals that a speaker is rejecting a suggested option. Hearing this phrase means the option just mentioned is unlikely to be the final chosen solution.

#15 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

Is each of the four English skills on CELPIP-General scored together or separately?

Answer

Each skill, Listening, Reading, Writing, and Speaking, is scored separately on the Canadian Language Benchmark scale from 4 to 12, with scores below 4 reported as M. There is no combined overall score.

#16 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does "to follow up" mean, and where might it appear in Part 1?

Answer

It means to take a further action after an initial step, such as calling back or confirming details later. A Part 1 conversation may end with one speaker agreeing to follow up on an arrangement.

#17 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

Why is it useful to track pronouns like 'it' or 'that option' in a Part 1 monologue?

Answer

The single speaker often drops back to a pronoun once an option has already been named, so losing track of what the pronoun refers to can cause you to misattribute a reason or a decision to the wrong option.

#18 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does "a workaround" mean as a noun?

Answer

A workaround is a temporary or alternative method used to solve a problem when the usual approach is not possible. Part 1 speakers often propose a workaround before reaching a final decision.

#19 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What common trap involves a speaker changing their mind mid-conversation?

Answer

A speaker may first agree to something, then later express doubt or change their position. If a question asks for the speaker's final view, choosing their earlier statement rather than the updated one is a common error.

#20 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does "to accommodate someone" mean in a Part 1 context?

Answer

It means to adjust plans or arrangements to meet another person's needs. A speaker who accommodates a request is being flexible, which often marks the resolution of the problem.

#21 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

How should you use the brief time before questions appear on screen in Part 1?

Answer

Use the few seconds available to preview upcoming questions if the interface allows it, since knowing what to listen for in advance helps you catch the specific detail needed for each answer.

#22 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does "to weigh the options" mean?

Answer

It means to think carefully about the advantages and disadvantages of each choice before deciding. Part 1 speakers often weigh options aloud, which is exactly the reasoning the questions test.

#23 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What trap involves distractor reasons in Part 1?

Answer

A question may ask why a speaker rejected an option, but the conversation mentions several reasons in passing. Only the reason the speaker explicitly states as their own is correct, not a reason a listener might assume.

#24 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

What does "to run into a problem" mean?

Answer

It means to unexpectedly encounter a difficulty. This phrase often opens the problem-solving scenario in Part 1, signalling that the main issue is about to be described.

#25 · Listening Part 1 - Problem Solving

Since Listening is scored separately, does a weak Part 1 performance directly lower your Reading score?

Answer

No. Listening and Reading are scored independently on their own CLB scale, so performance in one section has no direct effect on the score reported for the other.

#26 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What is the focus of Listening Part 2?

Answer

Part 2 presents a longer everyday conversation between two people, often friends, family, or acquaintances, discussing plans, opinions, or shared experiences from daily life.

#27 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

How many options are given for each Listening Part 2 question?

Answer

Each question offers 4 options, A to D, and you choose the single best answer based on what was actually said in the conversation.

#28 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to catch up" mean in a Part 2 daily life conversation?

Answer

It means to talk with someone about what has happened since you last spoke, often after time apart. Many Part 2 conversations open with two friends catching up before moving into the main topic.

#29 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

Why is tracking the topic shift within a Part 2 conversation important?

Answer

Daily life conversations often start on one topic, such as weather or health, then shift to the real subject, like weekend plans. Questions usually focus on the main topic, not the small talk opener.

#30 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to make plans" mean, and how does it relate to Part 2?

Answer

It means to arrange to do something at a future time. Since Part 2 conversations frequently involve two people making plans together, listen for the agreed activity, place, and time.

#31 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What common trap involves opinions in Part 2?

Answer

Both speakers may express opinions on the same topic, sometimes disagreeing. A question asking for one speaker's opinion can be answered incorrectly if you mix up which speaker said what.

#32 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to bring something up" mean?

Answer

It means to introduce a topic into a conversation. Recognizing when a speaker brings up a new subject helps you follow the structure of a Part 2 dialogue.

#33 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

How should you handle unfamiliar idioms during Part 2 listening?

Answer

Do not stop to analyze an unfamiliar idiom, since the audio only plays once. Focus on the overall meaning from context and keep listening, as the answer usually depends on the main idea rather than one phrase.

#34 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to be up for something" mean?

Answer

It means to be willing or interested in doing an activity. If a speaker says they are up for an outing, it usually signals agreement with a suggested plan in a Part 2 conversation.

#35 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What trap involves a change of mind about plans in Part 2?

Answer

One speaker may initially decline an invitation and then reconsider later in the conversation. If a question asks whether the person will attend, the earlier refusal can wrongly seem like the final answer.

#36 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to have mixed feelings about something" mean?

Answer

It means to feel both positive and negative about a situation at the same time. A speaker with mixed feelings in Part 2 may not give a simple yes or no, so listen for the balance of their view.

#37 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What kind of details do Part 2 questions typically test?

Answer

Part 2 questions typically test specific details such as reasons, preferences, feelings, and small facts mentioned by the speakers, in addition to the overall gist of the conversation.

#38 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to be on the fence" mean?

Answer

It means to be undecided between two choices. A speaker on the fence in Part 2 has not committed to an option yet, which is different from a speaker who has already decided.

#39 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

Why is it risky to answer a Part 2 question based only on the first thing you hear about a subject?

Answer

Conversations develop over time, and a speaker's stance can be clarified or corrected later. The correct answer often depends on the final, most complete statement rather than an early mention.

#40 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to talk someone into something" mean?

Answer

It means to persuade someone to do something they were originally unwilling to do. This phrase often appears when one Part 2 speaker convinces the other to join an activity.

#41 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What is a useful mental habit while listening to Part 2 conversations?

Answer

Silently summarize each speaker's stance in a few words as the conversation proceeds, such as "wants to go" or "prefers to stay home," so you can quickly match it to the answer options afterward.

#42 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to give someone a hand" mean?

Answer

It means to help someone with a task. In a Part 2 conversation, one speaker offering to give the other a hand often signals a favour central to the conversation's plot.

#43 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What trap involves similar-sounding details in Part 2 answer options?

Answer

Answer options can contain details that sound similar to what was said but change a key fact, such as a day, name, or amount. Match the option precisely against what was stated, not just its general feel.

#44 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to keep someone posted" mean?

Answer

It means to keep someone informed of updates about a situation. A speaker asking to be kept posted in Part 2 expects future information, which can be relevant to a question about next steps.

#45 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

How does Part 2 differ from Part 1 in terms of conversation type?

Answer

Part 1 centres on solving a specific practical problem, while Part 2 covers a broader daily life conversation that may include plans, updates, and opinions without necessarily resolving one single problem.

#46 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to sound thrilled" versus "to sound reluctant" tell you about a speaker in Part 2?

Answer

These phrases describe tone. A speaker who sounds thrilled is enthusiastic about an idea, while one who sounds reluctant is hesitant or unwilling, which can directly answer questions about attitude.

#47 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

Why should you avoid choosing an option just because it contains a word you clearly heard?

Answer

Distractor options are often built from real words spoken in the audio but combined incorrectly. The correct option must match the actual meaning and relationship described, not just repeat a familiar word.

#48 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What does "to have a lot on one's plate" mean?

Answer

It means to be very busy with many responsibilities. A Part 2 speaker who says this is explaining why they may be unavailable or stressed, which often connects to a question about their situation.

#49 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

What is a good approach if you miss a detail during Part 2 listening?

Answer

Let it go and keep listening rather than dwelling on the missed detail, since the audio does not replay. Focusing on the next parts of the conversation gives you the best chance to answer later questions correctly.

#50 · Listening Part 2 - Daily Life Conversation

Does a strong Listening score guarantee a strong Speaking score on CELPIP-General?

Answer

No. Listening and Speaking are assessed and reported separately on the CLB scale, so a high result in one skill does not determine or guarantee the result in another.

#51 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What type of audio is used in Listening Part 3?

Answer

Part 3 presents an informational monologue or talk, often given by a single speaker explaining a topic, service, procedure, or set of facts rather than a back-and-forth conversation.

#52 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to provide an overview" mean, and why does it matter in Part 3?

Answer

It means to give a general summary of a topic before details follow. Many Part 3 talks open with an overview, which helps you predict the structure of the information that follows.

#53 · Listening Part 3 - Information

How many answer choices appear for each Listening Part 3 question?

Answer

As with all Listening parts, each question has 4 options, A through D, and only one is the best answer based on the information given in the talk.

#54 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What strategy helps when a Part 3 talk lists several steps or facts in sequence?

Answer

Mentally group facts by order or category as they are presented, such as first, second, and finally, since Part 3 questions often test the correct sequence or grouping of information rather than isolated facts.

#55 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to specialize in something" mean?

Answer

It means to focus mainly on one particular area or skill. A Part 3 speaker introducing themselves might mention what they specialize in, which can answer a question about their role or expertise.

#56 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What common trap involves numbers or statistics in Part 3?

Answer

A talk may mention multiple related numbers, such as a percentage and a total count. Selecting the wrong number because it appeared near the correct topic, rather than matching the specific value asked about, is a frequent error.

#57 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "a prerequisite" mean?

Answer

A prerequisite is something required before another thing can happen, such as a qualification needed before enrolling in a course. Part 3 talks about programs or services often mention prerequisites.

#58 · Listening Part 3 - Information

Why is identifying the purpose of the talk useful in Part 3?

Answer

Knowing whether the talk is meant to inform, instruct, or promote something helps you anticipate what kind of details, such as benefits, steps, or requirements, the questions are likely to ask about.

#59 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to be eligible for something" mean?

Answer

It means to meet the requirements needed to qualify for a benefit, program, or opportunity. Eligibility criteria are common content in Part 3 informational talks about services or programs.

#60 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What trap involves exceptions mentioned in a Part 3 talk?

Answer

A speaker may state a general rule and then mention an exception. If a question asks about a specific case, choosing the general rule instead of the stated exception leads to an incorrect answer.

#61 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to be subject to change" mean?

Answer

It means something may be altered later and is not fixed. Part 3 talks about schedules or policies sometimes note that details are subject to change, which itself can be a testable fact.

#62 · Listening Part 3 - Information

How should note-taking differ in Part 3 compared to Part 1's conversation?

Answer

Since Part 3 is a single continuous talk rather than a dialogue, focus notes on categories of information such as who, what, when, and requirements, rather than tracking two different speakers' positions.

#63 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to outline the process" mean?

Answer

It means to describe the steps of a process in order. A Part 3 speaker who outlines a process is giving you the exact sequence that later questions are likely to test.

#64 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What is a common trap when a Part 3 talk compares two similar items or services?

Answer

The talk may describe features of two options, and a question might ask which feature belongs to which option. Confusing which detail applies to which item is a frequent mistake in comparison-based talks.

#65 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to be applicable to" mean?

Answer

It means relevant to or able to be used for a particular group or situation. A rule described as applicable to a specific group in Part 3 does not necessarily apply to everyone mentioned in the talk.

#66 · Listening Part 3 - Information

Why is it useful to note the speaker's tone in a Part 3 informational talk?

Answer

Tone can signal whether the speaker is being neutral, cautionary, or enthusiastic about a topic, which sometimes helps answer questions about the speaker's attitude or the overall purpose of the talk.

#67 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to fall under a category" mean?

Answer

It means to belong to a particular classification or group. Part 3 talks that organize information into categories often test whether you can correctly place a detail under its matching category.

#68 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What trap involves a Part 3 talk correcting itself?

Answer

A speaker may state something and then correct or clarify it moments later, such as adjusting a date or amount. The corrected version, not the original statement, is the accurate answer.

#69 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to be exempt from something" mean?

Answer

It means to be officially excused from a requirement that otherwise applies. Part 3 talks about rules or fees sometimes mention who is exempt, which is distinct from who is simply eligible.

#70 · Listening Part 3 - Information

How does the informational focus of Part 3 differ from the news style of Part 4?

Answer

Part 3 typically explains a topic, service, or procedure directly to the listener, often in an instructional tone, while Part 4 presents a news item reporting on an event, similar to a broadcast report.

#71 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to be mandatory" mean, versus "optional"?

Answer

Mandatory means required, while optional means not required and left to personal choice. Part 3 talks frequently distinguish mandatory steps from optional ones, and mixing these up is a common error.

#72 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What is a good way to handle unfamiliar technical vocabulary in a Part 3 talk?

Answer

Rely on the surrounding context to infer general meaning rather than pausing on the unfamiliar term, since the recording continues regardless and losing the next sentence is more costly than one unclear word.

#73 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What does "to renew something" mean, such as a licence or membership?

Answer

It means to extend the validity of something that is expiring by completing a required process again. Part 3 informational talks about services often explain how and when something must be renewed.

#74 · Listening Part 3 - Information

What trap involves conditional statements in Part 3, such as "if... then"?

Answer

A speaker may describe a condition and its result, such as what happens if a deadline is missed. Answer options sometimes reverse the condition and result, so match the direction of the statement carefully.

#75 · Listening Part 3 - Information

Is the CLB score for Listening reported as a single combined number with Reading?

Answer

No. Listening and Reading each receive their own separate CLB score from 4 to 12, or M if below 4, and CELPIP-General never combines them into one overall score.

#76 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What is the format of Listening Part 4?

Answer

Part 4 presents a short news item, similar to what might be heard on a radio or television broadcast, reporting on a real-world type event, announcement, or development.

#77 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "to report on an event" mean in the context of Part 4?

Answer

It means to give factual information describing what happened, is happening, or will happen regarding a specific event. Part 4 news items are structured this way, similar to a real news broadcast.

#78 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

How many questions typically follow a Listening Part 4 news item?

Answer

5 scored questions typically follow a Listening Part 4 news item.

#79 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "an update" mean as used in a news item?

Answer

An update is new information added to something previously reported, such as a change in status. Part 4 news items sometimes present an update on an ongoing situation rather than a brand-new story.

#80 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What is a useful listening strategy for the fast pace of a Part 4 news item?

Answer

Focus on the core facts, who, what, when, and where, since news items are often information-dense and delivered quickly, and the audio only plays once with no replay.

#81 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "to announce" mean?

Answer

It means to state something officially and publicly for the first time. Part 4 news items frequently centre on an announcement, such as a new policy, event, or finding.

#82 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What common trap involves the timing of events in Part 4 news items?

Answer

A news item may mention when something happened, is happening now, and will happen in the future all in one short segment. Confusing past, present, and future timing is a frequent source of wrong answers.

#83 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "to affect a certain group" mean?

Answer

It means to have an impact on a specific set of people or things. Part 4 items often specify exactly which group is affected by a development, and this detail is a common question focus.

#84 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

Why is it risky to assume a Part 4 story matches a familiar real-world news topic?

Answer

The scenario is created for the test and may not follow real-world outcomes you might expect. Base your answers strictly on what is stated in the audio, not on outside knowledge or assumptions.

#85 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "to go into effect" mean?

Answer

It means for a rule, law, or change to officially begin operating. Part 4 news items about new policies often specify exactly when the policy goes into effect, which is a testable detail.

#86 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What trap involves quoted speakers within a Part 4 news item?

Answer

A news item may include a short quote from an official or expert. A question asking what this specific person said requires matching the quote to the correct speaker, not to the reporter's own summary.

#87 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "a spokesperson" mean?

Answer

A spokesperson is a person who speaks on behalf of an organization or group. Part 4 news items sometimes quote a spokesperson, and their statement can be the answer to a detail question.

#88 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

How does the tone of Part 4 typically differ from Part 3?

Answer

Part 4 tends to use a more formal, broadcast-style tone reporting discrete facts about an event, whereas Part 3 often instructs or explains a topic directly and can feel more conversational in delivery.

#89 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "to cause concern" mean?

Answer

It means to lead people to worry about something. A Part 4 news item might state that a development has caused concern among a certain group, which can be the basis of a question about reaction.

#90 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What trap involves cause-and-effect relationships in Part 4 news items?

Answer

A news item may describe multiple events where one caused another. Reversing which event was the cause and which was the effect is a common wrong-answer pattern in these questions.

#91 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "a development" mean as used in news reporting?

Answer

A development is a new event or change in an ongoing situation. Part 4 items often describe the latest development in a story, distinguishing it from earlier background information.

#92 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

Why should you avoid focusing only on the opening sentence of a Part 4 news item?

Answer

The opening sentence often just introduces the general topic, while the key testable facts, numbers, and outcomes are usually given afterward, so sustained attention through the whole item matters.

#93 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "in response to" mean?

Answer

It means as a reaction to something that happened first. Part 4 news items use this phrase to link an action taken by a person or organization to an earlier event, which is often tested directly.

#94 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What trap involves location details in Part 4 news items?

Answer

A story may mention more than one place, such as where an event started and where it is having an effect. Mixing up these locations is a common error when answering location-based questions.

#95 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "to confirm" mean, as opposed to "to speculate"?

Answer

To confirm means to state something as verified fact, while to speculate means to guess without certainty. A Part 4 news item may distinguish confirmed facts from speculation, and questions can test this distinction.

#96 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

Why is note-taking for Part 4 often shorter than for Part 3?

Answer

Part 4 news items are typically brief and dense, so there is less time to write extended notes. Jotting only the most critical facts, such as key numbers and names, is usually more effective.

#97 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "to postpone" mean?

Answer

It means to delay an event to a later time. Part 4 news items about changed plans or events sometimes use this word, and the new timing given afterward is often the tested detail.

#98 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What trap involves partial information given early in a Part 4 news item?

Answer

An item may give an incomplete fact early on and clarify it later, such as first mentioning a general area and then specifying an exact detail. The clarified, more specific information is usually what a question is checking.

#99 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

What does "to be under investigation" mean?

Answer

It means that an official inquiry into a matter is currently taking place, with no confirmed outcome yet. Part 4 items describing something under investigation are indicating the situation is unresolved.

#100 · Listening Part 4 - News Item

Because each CELPIP-General skill is scored separately, what should you do if Part 4 feels difficult?

Answer

Do your best on it and move forward calmly, since one difficult part does not directly change how another skill like Reading or Speaking is scored. Each skill's CLB score reflects only that skill's overall performance.

#101 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What is the format of Listening Part 5?

Answer

Part 5 presents a discussion between two speakers, exchanging views or information on a shared topic in a more extended, back-and-forth conversation than Part 2's.

#102 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

Why is tracking who is speaking especially important in Part 5?

Answer

Because Part 5 is a longer, more detailed two-speaker exchange than Part 2, confusing which of the two people made which point is a common source of error.

#103 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to chime in" mean?

Answer

It means to join a conversation, usually by adding a comment or opinion. In a Part 5 discussion, a third speaker chiming in often introduces a new perspective that a question may ask about.

#104 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

How many answer options are given for Listening Part 5 questions?

Answer

As with all Listening parts, each question offers 4 options, A through D, and only one option accurately reflects what was said in the discussion.

#105 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to have a point" mean when a speaker agrees with another?

Answer

It means acknowledging that what another person said is valid or reasonable. This phrase in a Part 5 discussion signals partial or full agreement, which is different from a speaker fully disagreeing.

#106 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What common trap arises when multiple speakers discuss the same topic with different opinions?

Answer

Answer options may attribute one speaker's opinion to a different speaker. Careful tracking of each individual's stance throughout the discussion prevents this mix-up.

#107 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to play devil's advocate" mean?

Answer

It means to argue an opposing position, not necessarily because you believe it, but to test or explore an idea further. A speaker playing devil's advocate in Part 5 is not always stating their true opinion.

#108 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

Why is it useful to identify the overall topic of a Part 5 discussion early?

Answer

Identifying the topic early helps you organize incoming details under the right subject, making it easier to sort each speaker's related comments as the discussion continues.

#109 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to build on someone's idea" mean?

Answer

It means to add further detail or development to a point someone else has already made, rather than introducing a completely separate idea. This shows agreement combined with an extension of the topic.

#110 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What trap involves partial agreement in a Part 5 discussion?

Answer

A speaker might agree with part of another's statement while disagreeing with another part. Treating this as full agreement or full disagreement, rather than the nuanced position actually expressed, is a common mistake.

#111 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to see eye to eye" mean?

Answer

It means to agree completely with someone on a topic. If two Part 5 speakers do not see eye to eye, it signals a genuine disagreement rather than minor differences in wording.

#112 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

How can you keep track of shifting group consensus in a longer Part 5 discussion?

Answer

Note briefly whenever the group appears to reach agreement or when a new disagreement arises, since a shift in consensus partway through is often what a concluding question is designed to test.

#113 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to bring up a counterpoint" mean?

Answer

It means to introduce an argument or fact that opposes a previous statement. Recognizing a counterpoint in Part 5 helps identify which speaker holds an opposing view on the discussion topic.

#114 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What trap involves a speaker who initially states one opinion but is later persuaded to soften it?

Answer

Part 5 speakers sometimes start firm on a position and shift after hearing the other person's argument, so an answer describing only their original opening stance can be wrong if a question asks for their final view.

#115 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to reach a consensus" mean?

Answer

It means for a group to arrive at a shared agreement after discussion. A Part 5 conversation that reaches a consensus has moved past individual disagreement to a collective decision or view.

#116 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

Why can Part 5 feel more demanding than Parts 1 or 2?

Answer

With more speakers and often more topics or subpoints raised, there is more information to organize mentally within a single playback, which is why concise real-time tracking is especially valuable here.

#117 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to steer the conversation" mean?

Answer

It means to guide a discussion toward a particular subject or direction. A speaker who steers the conversation in Part 5 is actively shaping which topic gets discussed next.

#118 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What trap involves a speaker who initially disagrees but is later persuaded?

Answer

If a question asks for a speaker's final position, an early disagreement followed by a later change of mind means the earlier statement is not the correct answer to a question about their ultimate view.

#119 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to have reservations about something" mean?

Answer

It means to feel some doubt or concern about an idea, without fully rejecting it. A speaker with reservations in Part 5 is neither fully for nor fully against the point under discussion.

#120 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

Why is quick shorthand notation, like initials for names, helpful in Part 5?

Answer

Using a simple initial or symbol for each speaker as they talk lets you quickly note who said what without slowing down, which matters since the discussion plays only once at natural speed.

#121 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to concede a point" mean?

Answer

It means to admit that part of an opposing argument is correct, even while maintaining an overall different position. A speaker conceding a point in Part 5 is not necessarily abandoning their main view.

#122 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What trap involves overlapping topics in a Part 5 discussion with several subtopics?

Answer

Speakers may move between related subtopics quickly. A detail correct for one subtopic can be wrongly applied to a different but related subtopic if you are not tracking the current focus of the discussion.

#123 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

What does "to back someone up" mean?

Answer

It means to support another person's opinion or statement. In Part 5, one speaker backing up another signals agreement, forming a pair or group with a shared position on the topic.

#124 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

Why should a Part 5 question about the discussion's overall conclusion be approached carefully?

Answer

The overall conclusion may differ from any single speaker's individual opinion stated earlier, since it reflects where the group ends up after all viewpoints have been exchanged.

#125 · Listening Part 5 - Discussion

Since Listening is only one of four separately scored skills, how should Part 5's difficulty be viewed in preparation?

Answer

As one part contributing to your overall Listening CLB score, not a determinant of your Reading, Writing, or Speaking scores, which are assessed completely independently under the CLB 4 to 12 scale.

#126 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What is the focus of Listening Part 6?

Answer

Part 6 presents one speaker expressing a personal viewpoint on a single issue, supporting it with reasons, and often acknowledging a counterargument before returning to defend or soften their own position.

#127 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "a viewpoint" mean?

Answer

A viewpoint is a particular way of looking at or thinking about a situation or issue. Part 6 is specifically built around comparing different viewpoints on the same topic.

#128 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

As the final part of the Listening section, what should you keep in mind about pacing for Part 6?

Answer

Since Part 6 is the last of 6 parts within the roughly 46 to 55 minute Listening section, maintaining focus through to the end matters just as much as at the start, even if attention has been sustained for a while.

#129 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to hold a differing view" mean?

Answer

Part 6 passages are structured around one speaker who holds and defends a clear personal view, so identifying that speaker's position (and whether it shifts by the end) is central.

#130 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What common trap involves a speaker's concession in Part 6?

Answer

A speaker may briefly acknowledge an opposing view using a phrase like 'admittedly' or 'of course,' but this is not necessarily their final position; listen for whether they concede the point fully or counter it and return to their original claim.

#131 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to be in favour of something" mean, versus "to be opposed to something"?

Answer

In favour of means supporting an idea, while opposed to means against it. These are core phrases for Part 6, since questions frequently ask which speaker is in favour of or opposed to a given proposal.

#132 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What trap involves a speaker's supporting reason versus their overall stance in Part 6?

Answer

A speaker may give several reasons, some seeming to support and some seeming to question an idea, while still holding one clear overall stance. Identify the speaker's final position rather than any single reason in isolation.

#133 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to take a stance" mean?

Answer

It means to adopt and express a clear position on an issue. A Part 6 speaker who takes a stance is stating their opinion directly, which is usually the detail a related question is checking.

#134 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

Why is it helpful to note the strength of an opinion, not just its direction, in Part 6?

Answer

A speaker might mildly agree or strongly agree with an idea, and some questions test this degree of intensity, so noting whether a view is strong or weak, not just positive or negative, adds useful precision.

#135 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to have a valid point" mean?

Answer

It means that an argument someone makes is logical and reasonable, even if the listener does not fully agree with the overall conclusion. A speaker acknowledging a valid point in Part 6 is not necessarily changing their own stance.

#136 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What trap involves questions asking for the reason behind a viewpoint in Part 6?

Answer

...choosing a reason the speaker used to illustrate a different point, or the counterargument the speaker only raised to address it, instead of the actual reason asked about, is a common mistake.

#137 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to be skeptical of something" mean?

Answer

It means to doubt or question the truth or value of an idea. A skeptical speaker in Part 6 is expressing a critical viewpoint, distinct from a speaker who is simply neutral or undecided.

#138 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

Why should you avoid assuming the speaker's opening sentence is a supporting reason rather than the main claim in Part 6?

Answer

Part 6 speakers usually state their central opinion in the first sentence or two using opinion language like 'I believe' or 'in my view,' so treating an early supporting reason as if it were the main claim, or vice versa, is the actual risk since there is only one speaker's position to track.

#139 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to shift one's position" mean?

Answer

It means to change one's opinion or stance during a conversation, often after hearing a persuasive point. A speaker who shifts position in Part 6 ends with a different view than they started with.

#140 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

Why is it useful to track how confidently a Part 6 speaker states each part of their argument?

Answer

The same speaker may sound confident about their main claim but more tentative when acknowledging a counterargument, and this shift in certainty can signal which part of the passage is the true final position.

#141 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to raise a concern" mean?

Answer

It means to mention a worry or potential problem related to a topic. A speaker who raises a concern in Part 6 may not be fully against an idea, only cautious about one specific aspect of it.

#142 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

Why is completing your Part 6 answers with fresh attention important since it is the final Listening part?

Answer

Fatigue near the end of a long section can lead to careless mistakes on otherwise clear questions, so treating Part 6 with the same care as Part 1 helps protect your overall Listening CLB score.

#143 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to remain neutral on an issue" mean?

Answer

It means not clearly favouring either side of a debate. A speaker who remains neutral in Part 6 should not be matched to an answer option describing a strong opinion in either direction.

#144 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What trap involves a Part 6 question asking about the speaker's overall stance after a concession?

Answer

A speaker may concede that a counterargument has some merit, but the correct answer to a question about their overall stance is usually their original claim (or an explicitly stated softened version of it), not the concession itself treated as their final view.

#145 • Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to make a compelling case" mean?

Answer

It means to argue a position persuasively and convincingly. A speaker described as making a compelling case in Part 6 is presenting strong supporting reasons for their viewpoint, which can be the focus of a related question.

#146 • Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

How can reviewing common opinion-language phrases before test day help with Part 6?

Answer

Recognizing phrases like in favour of, opposed to, skeptical of, and on balance quickly, without needing to translate them mentally, frees attention to focus on tracking which speaker holds which viewpoint.

#147 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "on balance" mean when a speaker uses it to summarize their view?

Answer

It means considering everything together, weighing both positives and negatives, before reaching an overall judgment. A speaker who says "on balance" is giving their final, most complete opinion after discussing multiple points.

#148 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What trap involves the very first sentence of a Part 6 passage?

Answer

The first sentence often only introduces the general topic before the speaker's actual opinion is stated a sentence or two later using clear opinion language, so treating the topic introduction itself as the main claim can lead to too broad or vague an answer.

#149 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

What does "to hold firm" mean?

Answer

It means to maintain one's opinion without changing it, even after hearing opposing arguments. A speaker who holds firm in Part 6 ends the discussion with the same stance they started with.

#150 · Listening Part 6 - Viewpoints

After finishing Listening Part 6, what should you remember about how this section's score relates to Reading, which comes next?

Answer

Listening receives its own separate CLB score and has no bearing on the separately scored Reading section that follows, so approach Reading with a fresh outlook regardless of how Listening felt.

#151 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What is the total scored question count and structure of the CELPIP-General Reading section?

Answer

Reading has 38 scored questions across 4 parts, taking approximately 43 to 56 minutes overall. Unlike Listening, Reading is self-paced with no forced per-part timer.

#152 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What type of text does Reading Part 1 typically use?

Answer

Reading Part 1 centres on correspondence, such as a letter, email, or written message between people, often about a personal or practical matter that you then answer questions about.

#153 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

Since Reading is self-paced, what should you keep in mind about time management across all 4 parts?

Answer

Because there is no forced timer per part, you control how much time you spend on each part within the overall 43 to 56 minute allowance, so pacing yourself across all 4 parts is your own responsibility.

#154 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to correspond with someone" mean?

Answer

It means to communicate with someone regularly through letters, emails, or messages. Reading Part 1's correspondence format is built around this kind of written exchange.

#155 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

How many options are given per Reading Part 1 question?

Answer

As with every Reading part, each question has 4 options, A through D, and you choose the single best answer based on what the correspondence actually states.

#156 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What is a good first step when starting a Reading Part 1 correspondence passage?

Answer

Quickly note who is writing to whom and the general purpose of the message before reading in detail, since this framing helps you interpret specific sentences correctly as you continue reading.

#157 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to request something" mean, and why is it relevant in Part 1?

Answer

It means to formally or politely ask for something. Correspondence passages frequently centre on one person requesting information, help, or an action from another, making the specific request a common question topic.

#158 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What common trap involves an answer option that sounds plausible but isn't stated?

Answer

An option can sound like a reasonable, natural continuation of the letter's topic without being supported by the text. Always confirm the option matches what is explicitly said or clearly implied, not just what would make sense in context.

#159 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to apologize for an inconvenience" mean?

Answer

It means to express regret for a problem or difficulty caused to someone. This phrase commonly appears in correspondence where the writer is addressing a mistake or delay.

#160 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

Why is it important to notice the relationship between the writer and reader in a Part 1 letter?

Answer

The relationship, such as coworkers, a customer and a company, or friends, affects the tone and formality of the language used, which can help you correctly interpret polite requests, complaints, or explanations.

#161 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to follow up on a previous message" mean?

Answer

It means to send another message continuing a topic that was already raised earlier. A Part 1 correspondence passage might be this kind of follow-up, so noticing references to an earlier exchange helps set context.

#162 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What trap involves multiple requests or points in one correspondence passage?

Answer

A single letter or email might raise more than one issue or request. A question asking for a specific detail can be answered wrong if you match it to a different point raised in the same passage.

#163 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to clarify" mean?

Answer

It means to make something clearer or easier to understand, often by explaining it in more detail. A correspondence writer might ask the reader to clarify a point, which signals that something in an earlier message was unclear.

#164 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

Since Reading is self-paced, is it a good idea to reread a confusing sentence in Part 1 if needed?

Answer

Yes. Unlike the Listening audio, which plays only once, Reading passages remain visible, so rereading a confusing sentence or checking a detail again is both possible and often useful.

#165 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to express appreciation" mean?

Answer

It means to show thanks or gratitude for something. Correspondence often closes with an expression of appreciation, which can be a useful clue to the overall tone of the message being tested.

#166 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What trap involves tone in a Reading Part 1 correspondence question?

Answer

A question might ask about the writer's tone, such as frustrated, polite, or urgent. Choosing an overly extreme tone description when the actual wording is measured and polite is a common error.

#167 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to confirm receipt" mean?

Answer

It means to acknowledge that something, such as a document or payment, has been received. This phrase commonly appears in professional correspondence, and its presence often signals that an earlier item has arrived successfully.

#168 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

Why might skimming the whole correspondence passage once before answering questions be helpful?

Answer

An initial skim gives you a sense of the overall structure and main purpose, which makes it faster and more accurate to locate specific details when you return to the text for each individual question.

#169 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to enclose something" mean in written correspondence?

Answer

It means to include an additional item along with a letter or email, such as a document or attachment. A writer who says they are enclosing something is providing extra material beyond the main message.

#170 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What trap involves synonyms between the passage and the answer options in Reading Part 1?

Answer

Correct answers are often paraphrased using different words than the passage, while incorrect options may reuse the passage's exact wording out of context. Focus on matching meaning, not just matching identical words.

#171 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to address a concern" mean?

Answer

It means to respond to and deal with a worry or issue that has been raised. A reply in a Part 1 correspondence passage often addresses a concern mentioned in an earlier message within the exchange.

#172 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

Why is understanding the sequence of an email exchange important in Part 1?

Answer

Some passages present more than one message in a thread, and misreading which message came first can lead to confusion about what was already resolved versus what is still an open issue.

#173 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What does "to reach out to someone" mean?

Answer

It means to contact someone, often to ask for help or information. A correspondence writer describing why they are reaching out is usually stating the main purpose of their message.

#174 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

What trap involves a polite refusal in a Part 1 correspondence passage?

Answer

A writer may decline a request politely using softened language rather than a direct no. Missing a softened refusal and assuming agreement instead is a common misunderstanding in correspondence-based questions.

#175 · Reading Part 1 - Correspondence

Is the Reading CLB score combined with the Listening CLB score on the final CELPIP-General results?

Answer

No. Reading and Listening are each reported as their own separate CLB score from 4 to 12, or M if below 4, with no combined total across the two skills.

#176 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does Reading Part 2 typically ask you to interpret?

Answer

Part 2 involves a diagram or visual layout, such as an advertisement, notice, or form, paired with related written text, testing your ability to interpret and apply information presented visually alongside text.

#177 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "to interpret a diagram" mean?

Answer

It means to understand and explain the meaning of information presented visually, such as in a chart, form, or layout. Part 2 specifically tests this skill by combining visual and written information.

#178 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

Why should you examine labels and headings in a Part 2 diagram carefully before answering questions?

Answer

Labels and headings often indicate exactly which section of the diagram contains the information needed for a specific question, saving time compared to searching the whole layout randomly.

#179 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

How many options does each Reading Part 2 question offer?

Answer

Each question offers 4 options, A through D, consistent with the format used throughout both the Listening and Reading sections of CELPIP-General.

#180 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "eligibility criteria" mean in the context of an application form?

Answer

Eligibility criteria are the specific requirements a person must meet to qualify for something, such as a program or service. Part 2 diagrams describing an application often list these criteria clearly.

#181 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What common trap involves footnotes or small print in a Reading Part 2 diagram?

Answer

Important exceptions or conditions are sometimes placed in small print or footnotes attached to a diagram. Overlooking this text and relying only on the main labels can lead to an incorrect answer.

#182 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "to fill out a form" mean?

Answer

It means to complete a document by providing the requested information in the correct fields. Part 2 passages about applications or registrations often relate directly to how a form should be filled out.

#183 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

Why is it useful to compare numbers or dates across different sections of a Part 2 diagram?

Answer

A diagram may present different fees, dates, or quantities in separate sections, such as regular versus discounted rates, and a question may require correctly matching a condition to its specific corresponding value.

#184 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "a deadline" mean, and why does it matter for Part 2 diagrams?

Answer

A deadline is the latest date or time by which something must be completed. Application-style diagrams in Part 2 often list one or more deadlines, and questions may test whether you can identify the correct one.

#185 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What trap involves a diagram that lists multiple tiers or categories, such as pricing levels?

Answer

Each tier may have its own set of conditions or benefits. Applying a detail from one tier to a question about a different tier is a common mistake when the categories are visually similar.

#186 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "to qualify for a discount" mean?

Answer

It means to meet the specific conditions required to receive a reduced price. Part 2 diagrams about pricing or membership plans often specify separate conditions for qualifying for different discounts.

#187 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

Why should you read any accompanying paragraph text in Part 2, not just the diagram itself?

Answer

The written text accompanying a diagram sometimes provides context, exceptions, or instructions not shown visually, and questions can require combining information from both the diagram and the surrounding text.

#188 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "to submit an application" mean?

Answer

It means to formally send in a completed application for consideration. Reading Part 2 diagrams about processes frequently describe the required steps for submitting an application correctly.

#189 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What trap involves a diagram showing a process with several steps in a specific order?

Answer

A question might ask what comes before or after a certain step. Because visual layouts do not always read in a strict line-by-line order, misreading the sequence of steps is a common Part 2 error.

#190 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "to be valid until a certain date" mean?

Answer

It means that something remains usable or in effect only up to a specified date, after which it expires. Diagrams about permits, tickets, or memberships often state validity periods this way.

#191 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

Why can visual scanning skills help specifically with Reading Part 2?

Answer

Since information is presented in a non-linear visual layout rather than flowing paragraphs, being able to scan across sections, boxes, or columns efficiently helps you locate the exact detail a question is asking about.

#192 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "to be applicable only to new customers" mean as a stated condition?

Answer

It means the described benefit or rule applies exclusively to new customers and not to existing ones. Conditions like this in a Part 2 diagram narrow who a rule applies to, which is often exactly what a question tests.

#193 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What trap involves a diagram with a comparison table between two or more options?

Answer

A comparison table lists features side by side for each option. Selecting a feature that belongs to a neighbouring column instead of the one asked about is a frequent mistake when scanning quickly.

#194 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "to be excluded from an offer" mean?

Answer

It means something is specifically not included within a stated promotion or benefit. Part 2 diagrams describing offers often list exclusions separately from the main benefits, and missing this list is a common error source.

#195 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

Since Reading Part 2 is self-paced, is it worthwhile to look back and forth between the diagram and a specific question more than once?

Answer

Yes. Because there is no forced per-part timer, returning to compare the diagram against the exact wording of a question as many times as needed is a reasonable and often effective strategy.

#196 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "a notice" mean as a type of written document?

Answer

A notice is a short, formal announcement providing information to a group of people, such as residents or customers. Part 2 sometimes uses a notice format combined with a diagram or layout element.

#197 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What trap involves rounding or approximate figures shown in a Part 2 diagram?

Answer

A diagram might show a figure described as approximate, such as an estimated cost, while a question asks for an exact stated amount elsewhere. Confusing an approximate figure with an exact one can lead to a wrong answer.

#198 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

What does "to be included at no extra cost" mean?

Answer

It means a feature or item comes with the main offer without any additional payment required. This phrase in a Part 2 diagram distinguishes included features from optional add-ons that do cost extra.

#199 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

Why is it useful to underline or mentally flag key numbers while reading a Part 2 diagram?

Answer

Diagrams often contain several similar numbers, such as fees, dates, and quantities placed close together, and flagging each one to its label helps prevent mixing them up when answering later questions.

#200 · Reading Part 2 - Diagram Application

Does performance on the visually complex Reading Part 2 affect your separately scored Writing result?

Answer

No. Reading and Writing are scored completely separately on the CLB scale, so how you perform interpreting a Part 2 diagram has no direct bearing on your Writing score.

#201 • Reading Part 3 - Information

What kind of passage is used in Reading Part 3?

Answer

Reading Part 3 uses an informational passage, typically explaining a topic, situation, or set of facts in continuous prose, similar in spirit to Listening Part 3 but presented as a written text.

#202 • Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "the main idea" of a passage mean?

Answer

The main idea is the central point or overall message the passage is communicating, as opposed to specific supporting details. Reading Part 3 often includes at least one question testing the main idea directly.

#203 · Reading Part 3 - Information

How many answer options are typically given for a Reading Part 3 question?

Answer

Each question offers 4 options, A through D, and the correct choice must be supported by information actually stated or clearly implied in the passage.

#204 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to imply something" mean, versus "to state something directly"?

Answer

To imply means to suggest something indirectly without saying it outright, while to state means to say something explicitly. Some Part 3 questions test implied meaning, which requires reading between the lines rather than finding an exact quote.

#205 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What common trap involves an option that repeats exact words from the passage in Reading Part 3?

Answer

An option might use exact phrases from the passage but combine them in a way that changes the original meaning. Always verify that an option's overall claim matches the passage's actual meaning, not only its vocabulary.

#206 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to elaborate on a point" mean?

Answer

It means to explain something in more detail after first mentioning it briefly. Recognizing where a Part 3 passage elaborates helps you find the fuller explanation a detail-based question may be asking about.

#207 · Reading Part 3 - Information

Why is skimming a Part 3 passage for structure before answering questions often effective?

Answer

Noticing the general order of ideas, such as an introduction followed by supporting points and a conclusion, helps you predict roughly where in the passage to look for the answer to each specific question.

#208 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "a contributing factor" mean?

Answer

A contributing factor is one of several things that helps cause a particular result, without necessarily being the only cause. Part 3 passages explaining a situation often list multiple contributing factors.

#209 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What trap involves absolute words like "always" or "never" in Part 3 answer options?

Answer

An option containing an absolute word is often incorrect if the passage only supports a more limited or qualified statement. Compare the strength of the option's claim against the actual wording used in the passage.

#210 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to support a claim with evidence" mean?

Answer

It means to back up a statement using facts, examples, or data. Part 3 passages that make a claim often follow it with supporting evidence, and questions may ask you to identify this supporting detail.

#211 · Reading Part 3 - Information

Why might reading the final paragraph of a Reading Part 3 passage carefully help with main idea questions?

Answer

Concluding paragraphs often summarize or restate the passage's central point, so paying close attention there can confirm or clarify your understanding of the main idea tested elsewhere.

#212 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "a counterargument" mean?

Answer

A counterargument is a point that opposes or challenges the main argument being presented. Some Part 3 passages present a counterargument before responding to it, and understanding this structure clarifies the passage's overall stance.

#213 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What trap involves a detail mentioned only briefly near the end of a Part 3 passage?

Answer

Test takers sometimes stop reading closely once they feel they understand the main idea, missing a specific detail mentioned later. Questions can specifically target these less obvious, later details.

#214 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to draw a conclusion" mean?

Answer

It means to form a judgment or decision based on given information. A Part 3 question asking what conclusion can be drawn requires combining passage details logically, not simply locating one directly stated sentence.

#215 • Reading Part 3 - Information

Why is paragraph-by-paragraph annotation, even brief, a useful Part 3 strategy?

Answer

Jotting a short label for each paragraph's main content as you read, such as "background" or "example," makes it much faster to return to the correct section when answering a specific question afterward.

#216 • Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to be consistent with" mean?

Answer

It means to agree with or not contradict another statement or fact. A question asking which option is consistent with the passage requires checking that the option does not conflict with anything the passage states.

#217 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What trap involves a passage discussing both a general trend and a specific exception?

Answer

A question may ask about the exception specifically, and choosing an option describing only the general trend, ignoring the stated exception, is a common way to answer such a question incorrectly.

#218 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to be irrelevant to the discussion" mean?

Answer

It means unrelated to or not important for the specific topic being discussed. Recognizing when an answer option, though factually true elsewhere, is irrelevant to the specific point a question addresses helps eliminate wrong choices.

#219 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to generalize" mean?

Answer

It means to form a broad statement based on limited or specific information. Reading Part 3 questions sometimes test whether an answer option makes an unsupported generalization beyond what the passage actually supports.

#220 · Reading Part 3 - Information

Why is comparing two closely worded answer options directly against each other useful in Part 3?

Answer

When two options seem similar, placing them side by side and identifying the exact difference in wording, rather than rereading the whole passage again, often reveals which one truly matches the passage's meaning.

#221 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to be plausible" mean, versus "to be certain"?

Answer

Plausible means reasonably believable but not confirmed, while certain means definitely established as fact. Some Part 3 options describe only plausible outcomes, which should not be confused with a firmly stated fact from the passage.

#222 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What trap involves vocabulary-in-context questions in Reading Part 3?

Answer

A question may ask for the meaning of a word as used in the passage, but that word can have multiple general meanings. The correct answer must match how the word is specifically used in that sentence, not its most common dictionary sense.

#223 · Reading Part 3 - Information

What does "to be a byproduct of something" mean?

Answer

It means to be a secondary result that occurs alongside a main effect or process. Part 3 passages describing processes or developments sometimes mention byproducts that are separate from the primary outcome.

#224 · Reading Part 3 - Information

Why is it helpful to reread only the relevant sentence, not the entire passage, when checking a specific detail question in Part 3?

Answer

Since Reading is self-paced, targeted rereading of just the sentence or two most relevant to a question saves time compared to rereading the entire passage, while still confirming accuracy.

#225 · Reading Part 3 - Information

Because CELPIP-General has no fixed overall pass percentage, what should guide how you interpret your Reading Part 3 practice results?

Answer

Focus on your practice accuracy and how it maps to the CLB 4 to 12 scale for Reading specifically, since there is no single universal pass mark and each skill is judged only against its own CLB benchmark descriptors.

#226 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What is the focus of Reading Part 4?

Answer

A short passage introducing a topic, followed by two or three named individuals who each give their own separate opinion on it.

#227 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

As the final part of the Reading section, how does Part 4 fit within the self-paced 43 to 56 minute Reading time?

Answer

Since Reading has no forced per-part timer, you decide how much of the overall time to allocate to Part 4 based on how much time remains after completing Parts 1 through 3.

#228 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does "an argument" mean in the context of a viewpoint passage?

Answer

An argument is a reasoned case made to support a particular position or conclusion. Reading Part 4 passages are often built around one or more arguments for and against a specific issue.

#229 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

How many options does each Reading Part 4 question offer?

Answer

Each question offers 4 options, A through D, consistent with the multiple choice format used across the entire Reading and Listening sections of CELPIP-General.

#230 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does "to weigh the pros and cons" mean?

Answer

It means to consider both the advantages and disadvantages of an issue before forming a judgment. Reading Part 4 passages that present balanced viewpoints often weigh pros and cons of the topic under discussion.

#231 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What common trap involves a passage presenting two opposing views and then favouring one at the end?

Answer

Do not assume the last named speaker's view represents the passage's own conclusion. CELPIP Part 4 passages do not favour a side; each named speaker's view stands on its own.

#232 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does it mean when a named speaker in a Part 4 passage concedes a limitation?

Answer

The speaker briefly acknowledges a weakness or exception in their own view before continuing to hold their overall position, which a careful reader must not mistake for a full change of opinion.

#233 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

Why is identifying the writer's overall purpose useful for Reading Part 4?

Answer

Identify each named speaker's individual purpose and stance, since the passage itself has no single purpose beyond a neutral framing sentence introducing the topic.

#234 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does it mean when a named speaker in a Part 4 passage refutes another speaker's argument?

Answer

That speaker directly addresses and disagrees with a specific point another named individual made, giving their own reasoning for why it does not hold up.

#235 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What trap involves a rhetorical question used within a Reading Part 4 passage?

Answer

A rhetorical question is asked for effect, not to seek an actual answer, and can be mistaken for a genuine question the passage is trying to answer. Understand it as emphasizing the writer's point rather than raising new information.

#236 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What common trap involves a named speaker overstating a point in Part 4?

Answer

A named speaker in a Part 4 passage may use strong or absolute language to overstate a point, and a question may ask you to notice this rather than take the claim at face value.

#237 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

Why is distinguishing fact from opinion especially important in Reading Part 4?

Answer

A specific named speaker's opinion rather than an established fact.

#238 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does "to be one-sided" mean, versus "to be balanced"?

Answer

A Part 4 question may ask you to judge whether one individual named speaker's view is one-sided or balanced, since the passage as a whole is not judged this way; it simply presents multiple people's separate opinions.

#239 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What trap involves attributing one named speaker's opinion to the wrong person in Part 4?

Answer

A distractor may quote or paraphrase one speaker's words but attribute them to a different named speaker. Always verify which person's paragraph a quoted opinion actually came from before answering.

#240 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does "to advocate for something" mean?

Answer

A named speaker who advocates for a position in Part 4 is not neutral.

#241 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

Why is it useful to identify transition words like "however" or "on the other hand" in a Reading Part 4 passage?

Answer

These words often signal a shift to an opposing viewpoint or a qualification of an earlier point, helping you correctly locate where the passage moves from one perspective to another.

#242 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does it mean when a named speaker in a Part 4 passage undermines another speaker's argument?

Answer

That speaker points out a weakness or flaw in a different named individual's reasoning, without necessarily refuting the whole argument outright.

#243 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What trap involves an answer option that reflects a commonly held real-world belief rather than the passage's actual content?

Answer

An option can sound reasonable based on general knowledge but not actually be supported by the specific passage. Always base your Reading Part 4 answer on the text itself, not on outside assumptions about the topic.

#244 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does "to qualify a statement" mean?

Answer

A named speaker who qualifies a statement in Part 4 adds a condition or exception to their own claim rather than stating it as an absolute.

#245 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

Why is comparing the strength of language across two viewpoint paragraphs helpful in Reading Part 4?

Answer

...can be exactly what a question about two named speakers' relative confidence or emphasis is testing.

#246 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does "to remain impartial" mean?

Answer

A named speaker described as impartial should not be matched with an answer option implying that same speaker strongly supports one side.

#247 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What trap involves a Part 4 conclusion paragraph that briefly mentions a caveat?

Answer

The conclusion may state an overall position while also briefly noting an exception or caveat. A question about a specific limitation requires locating this caveat rather than only the paragraph's main concluding statement.

#248 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

What does "to reach a balanced judgment" mean?

Answer

A named speaker, like Priya in the chapter's own worked example, may propose a compromise position between two other named speakers, since the passage itself never reaches a judgment on its own.

#249 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

As you finish Reading Part 4, why is it useful to remember that all four CELPIP-General skills are reported separately?

Answer

Reading, Listening, Writing, and Speaking each receive their own CLB score from 4 to 12, or M if below 4, with no combined total, so finishing Reading strongly or weakly does not by itself determine how any other skill will be scored.

#250 · Reading Part 4 - Viewpoints

Overall, what should guide your approach across all 10 Listening and Reading parts covered in this deck?

Answer

Apply part-specific strategies, track speakers or viewpoints carefully, watch for common traps like changed decisions or misattributed opinions, and remember that CELPIP-General measures each skill separately with no fixed overall pass percentage.

#251 · Writing An Email

How much time do you have for CELPIP Writing Task 1, Writing an Email?

Answer

You have 27 minutes to plan, write, and check your email. Use most of that time for writing, but leave a few minutes at the end to proofread.

#252 · Writing An Email

What is the target word count for the Writing an Email task?

Answer

Your email should be between 150 and 200 words. Writing far under or far over this range can hurt your Task Fulfillment score.

#253 · Writing An Email

How many points must you cover in the email prompt?

Answer

The prompt always gives you three bullet points or requirements. All three must be clearly addressed for full task fulfillment.

#254 · Writing An Email

What should you decide before writing your first sentence?

Answer

Decide whether the situation calls for a formal or an informal tone. This choice affects your greeting, word choice, and sign-off throughout the email.

#255 · Writing An Email

Give an example of a formal email greeting.

Answer

'Dear Mr. Chan,' or 'Dear Sir or Madam,' are appropriate formal greetings when writing to a manager, landlord, or organization you do not know personally.

#256 · Writing An Email

Give an example of an informal email greeting.

Answer

'Hi Sarah,' or 'Hey Tom,' work well for informal emails to friends or family, matching the relaxed tone of the rest of the message.

#257 · Writing An Email

What is a common formal email closing?

Answer

'Sincerely,' 'Best regards,' or 'Yours truly,' followed by your name are standard formal closings that match a professional tone.

#258 · Writing An Email

What is a good basic structure for the email body?

Answer

Open with a brief reason for writing, use one paragraph per bullet point in the prompt, and end with a short closing statement before your sign-off.

#259 · Writing An Email

Name two formal transition words useful in this task.

Answer

'Furthermore' and 'In addition' both work well to connect ideas smoothly in a formal email without sounding repetitive.

#260 · Writing An Email

Name two informal transition phrases useful in this task.

Answer

'By the way' and 'Also' fit naturally into an informal email between friends, keeping the tone conversational.

#261 · Writing An Email

What is the most common scoring mistake in this task?

Answer

Leaving out one of the three required bullet points. Even a well written email loses marks on Task Fulfillment if a requirement is missing.

#262 · Writing An Email

Why is mixing formal and informal language a problem?

Answer

An inconsistent tone, such as slang in a business email or overly stiff language to a close friend, makes the writing feel unnatural and can lower your score.

#263 · Writing An Email

How should you split your 27 minutes for this task?

Answer

A reasonable split is about 3 to 4 minutes planning, 18 to 20 minutes writing, and 3 to 4 minutes checking your grammar and spelling.

#264 · Writing An Email

Give a polite phrase for making a request in a formal email.

Answer

'I would appreciate it if you could...' softens a request and sounds professional and courteous.

#265 · Writing An Email

Give a phrase for apologizing in an email.

Answer

'I apologize for any inconvenience this may cause' is a natural way to acknowledge a problem you are responsible for or reporting.

#266 · Writing An Email

What should you do if the prompt gives the recipient's name?

Answer

Use it in your greeting, for example 'Dear Ms. Patel,' rather than a generic greeting. This shows you read the prompt carefully.

#267 · Writing An Email

What is a common structural mistake test takers make?

Answer

Forgetting a closing sign-off entirely. Every email should end with an appropriate closing phrase and your name, even if invented.

#268 · Writing An Email

Why should you vary your sentence structure in this task?

Answer

Using only short simple sentences limits your Vocabulary and Readability scores. Mix simple and complex sentences to show range.

#269 · Writing An Email

What should your final 2 to 3 minutes be used for?

Answer

Reread your email for spelling errors, missing words, and grammar mistakes, and confirm all three bullet points are addressed.

#270 · Writing An Email

Give a diplomatic phrase for making a complaint in an email.

Answer

'I was disappointed to find that...' expresses dissatisfaction clearly without sounding overly aggressive or rude.

#271 · Writing An Email

Give a phrase for making a suggestion in an email.

Answer

'It might be helpful to...' or 'I suggest that...'
introduce a recommendation politely, useful when proposing a solution.

#272 · Writing An Email

Does the Writing an Email task include a picture?

Answer

No, this task is text only. You are given a written scenario and bullet points with no accompanying image.

#273 · Writing An Email

Do you need to write a subject line for the email?

Answer

No, the focus of scoring is on the body of the email. Spend your time developing the greeting, body paragraphs, and closing instead.

#274 · Writing An Email

Why is copying the prompt's exact wording a weak strategy?

Answer

Simply repeating prompt language without developing it in your own words does not demonstrate real task fulfillment or vocabulary range.

#275 · Writing An Email

What general categories is this task scored on?

Answer

Your email is assessed on content and coherence, vocabulary, readability, and task fulfillment, so a well organized, complete response in your own words scores best.

#276 · Responding To Survey Questions

How much time do you get for Writing Task 2, Responding to Survey Questions?

Answer

You have 26 minutes to read the survey question, choose your position, and write your response.

#277 · Responding To Survey Questions

What is the target word count for this task?

Answer

Aim for 150 to 200 words, the same range as Task 1. Staying within this range supports a strong Task Fulfillment score.

#278 · Responding To Survey Questions

What format does the survey prompt take?

Answer

You are presented with a survey question and two options to choose from, and you must pick one option and support it with reasons.

#279 · Responding To Survey Questions

How should you choose which option to write about?

Answer

Pick the option you can support with the strongest reasons and examples, not necessarily the option you would truly choose in real life.

#280 · Responding To Survey Questions

Where should you state your opinion in the response?

Answer

State your chosen option clearly in the opening sentence or two, so the reader knows your position right away.

#281 · Responding To Survey Questions

What is a solid structure for this essay-style response?

Answer

Open with your opinion, write two body paragraphs each giving a reason with an example, and close with a short paragraph restating your view.

#282 · Responding To Survey Questions

Give an opinion phrase useful for the opening sentence.

Answer

'In my opinion' or 'I firmly believe that' are direct, natural ways to state your position at the start of the response.

#283 · Responding To Survey Questions

Give a phrase for introducing a reason.

Answer

'One reason is that...' or 'This is because...' clearly signal you are supporting your opinion with a specific reason.

#284 · Responding To Survey Questions

Give a phrase for introducing an example.

Answer

'For example' or 'For instance' work well to follow a general reason with a concrete, specific detail.

#285 · Responding To Survey Questions

Give a phrase for the closing paragraph.

Answer

'In conclusion' or 'Overall' signal that you are wrapping up and restating your position for the reader.

#286 · Responding To Survey Questions

What is the most damaging structural mistake in this task?

Answer

Not clearly choosing one option. A response that stays neutral or lists pros and cons of both sides without committing loses Task Fulfillment marks.

#287 · Responding To Survey Questions

Why is switching your opinion mid-response a problem?

Answer

Starting with one option and drifting toward the other confuses the reader and weakens the coherence of your argument.

#288 · Responding To Survey Questions

Why do concrete examples matter in this task?

Answer

A reason without a specific example or personal detail reads as generic. Examples make your argument more convincing and readable.

#289 · Responding To Survey Questions

How should you divide your 26 minutes?

Answer

Spend about 3 minutes deciding your position and planning reasons, 19 to 20 minutes writing, and 3 minutes checking your work.

#290 · Responding To Survey Questions

Why should you use personal experience in this task?

Answer

Drawing on a real or invented personal experience adds specific detail and makes your reasoning more persuasive and natural.

#291 · Responding To Survey Questions

Name a linking word that shows contrast.

Answer

'However' or 'On the other hand' let you briefly acknowledge the other option before returning to your own argument.

#292 · Responding To Survey Questions

Name a linking word that adds emphasis.

Answer

'Moreover' or 'Furthermore' add a second, stronger point to your argument, showing you can develop ideas beyond a single reason.

#293 · Responding To Survey Questions

Why is answering the general topic instead of the specific question a mistake?

Answer

The survey asks a specific question with two options. A response that discusses the broad topic without answering that exact question loses points.

#294 · Responding To Survey Questions

Why is writing your response as a list a mistake?

Answer

A bulleted list of points does not demonstrate paragraph structure or coherence. Write full sentences organized into paragraphs instead.

#295 · Responding To Survey Questions

What should your final few minutes of the task be spent on?

Answer

Proofread for spelling and grammar errors and confirm your word count falls in the 150 to 200 word range.

#296 · Responding To Survey Questions

Does this task include an image?

Answer

No, you are given a written survey question with two text options and no picture.

#297 · Responding To Survey Questions

Give a phrase for expressing preference between the two options.

Answer

'I would rather...' or 'I prefer...' are natural ways to state which option you are choosing over the other.

#298 · Responding To Survey Questions

What is one grammar tip for a stronger response?

Answer

Use complex sentences with connectors like 'although' or 'even though' to show you can express more sophisticated relationships between ideas.

#299 · Responding To Survey Questions

What happens if your response is significantly under the word count?

Answer

A response well under 150 words is unlikely to develop your reasons and examples fully, which weakens both content and task fulfillment scores.

#300 · Responding To Survey Questions

What general categories is this task scored on?

Answer

Like Task 1, this task is assessed on content and coherence, vocabulary, readability, and task fulfillment.

#301 · Giving Advice

How much preparation and response time do you get for Speaking Task 1, Giving Advice?

Answer

You get 30 seconds to prepare and 90 seconds to respond, giving you time to plan quickly before speaking at length.

#302 · Giving Advice

What is the core requirement of this task?

Answer

A scenario describes someone facing a decision or problem, and you must give clear advice, usually choosing between two options rather than staying neutral.

#303 · Giving Advice

Why is committing to one clear piece of advice important?

Answer

Staying vague or refusing to choose weakens Task Fulfillment. A strong response clearly recommends one course of action and defends it.

#304 · Giving Advice

Give a phrase for stating your advice directly.

Answer

'I think you should...' or 'If I were you, I would...' clearly signal that you are giving a recommendation, not just describing the situation.

#305 · Giving Advice

Give a softer phrase for offering advice.

Answer

'You might want to consider...' or 'Perhaps it would be best to...' offer advice in a gentler, more diplomatic tone.

#306 · Giving Advice

What is the most common weakness in this task's responses?

Answer

Running out of things to say before the 90 seconds end. Plan two or three supporting points during preparation to avoid long silences.

#307 · Giving Advice

What should you plan for in your 30 seconds of prep?

Answer

Quickly decide your recommendation and think of two clear reasons that support it, so you are not thinking on the spot while speaking.

#308 · Giving Advice

What is a good basic structure for this response?

Answer

State your advice clearly, give two supporting reasons, and end with a brief closing statement that reinforces your recommendation.

#309 · Giving Advice

Why does silence during your response hurt your score?

Answer

Long pauses reduce fluency and make your response sound underdeveloped, even if the content you did say was reasonable.

#310 · Giving Advice

Why should you speak at a natural pace rather than rushing?

Answer

Rushing to fill 90 seconds can hurt clarity and pronunciation. It is better to speak steadily and let your ideas naturally fill the time.

#311 · Giving Advice

Give a phrase for acknowledging the person's problem before advising them.

Answer

'I understand that this is a difficult decision' shows empathy before you move into your recommendation.

#312 · Giving Advice

Give a phrase useful for comparing two options in this task.

Answer

'Compared to option A, option B is better because...' helps you directly justify your choice over the alternative.

#313 · Giving Advice

Why is imagining you're speaking directly to the person in the scenario helpful?

Answer

Speaking as if to a real friend or colleague makes your tone more natural and conversational, which supports listenability.

#314 · Giving Advice

Why is restating the problem without giving advice a mistake?

Answer

The task asks for your recommendation, not a summary of the situation. Restating the problem alone does not fulfill the task.

#315 · Giving Advice

Give an example of a conditional sentence useful for this task.

Answer

'If you take this job, you will gain valuable experience' links an action to a likely outcome, strengthening your advice.

#316 · Giving Advice

Why is it a mistake to give advice about the wrong part of the scenario?

Answer

Some prompts describe a problem with several elements. Make sure your advice directly addresses the actual decision the person needs to make.

#317 · Giving Advice

How should your sentence complexity change under time pressure?

Answer

Keep sentences clear and complete rather than attempting overly complicated grammar that you might not finish correctly under pressure.

#318 · Giving Advice

Give a phrase for transitioning to your second reason.

Answer

'Another reason is...' clearly signals you are adding a new supporting point rather than repeating the first one.

#319 · Giving Advice

Does this task display a picture?

Answer

No, the scenario is presented as written or spoken text describing the situation, with no image shown.

#320 · Giving Advice

Give a strong opinion phrase to open your advice.

Answer

'Honestly, my advice would be to...' signals confidence and commitment to your recommendation right from the start.

#321 · Giving Advice

Why is switching between two pieces of advice a mistake?

Answer

Wavering between two suggestions without settling on one makes your response sound indecisive and weakens Task Fulfillment.

#322 · Giving Advice

What broad categories does CELPIP Speaking scoring cover?

Answer

Speaking responses are scored on content and coherence, vocabulary, listenability, and task fulfillment, so clear organized speech matters as much as ideas.

#323 · Giving Advice

Should you worry about your accent when speaking?

Answer

No. Focus on speaking clearly and being understood rather than trying to sound like a native speaker. A clear accent is not penalized.

#324 · Giving Advice

What should you avoid doing right after stating your advice?

Answer

Avoid simply repeating your recommendation in different words. Move on to give reasons and examples that support it instead.

#325 · Giving Advice

Why is practising with real-life advice scenarios useful preparation?

Answer

Practising common situations, such as choosing between two jobs or two apartments, builds ready phrases you can adapt quickly during the real task.

#326 · Talking About A Personal Experience

How much preparation and response time do you get for Speaking Task 2?

Answer

You get 60 seconds to prepare and 60 seconds to respond, an equal split between planning and speaking.

#327 · Talking About A Personal Experience

What kind of story should you tell in this task?

Answer

Describe one specific event from your own life, or an invented but plausible one, rather than a general habit or repeated activity.

#328 · Talking About A Personal Experience

What is a good structure for this response?

Answer

Set the scene by describing when and where the event happened, describe what happened, and explain how you felt or what you learned.

#329 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Give sequencing words useful for telling a story in this task.

Answer

'First,' 'Then,' and 'After that' help organize your story clearly in the order events happened.

#330 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Give phrases for describing your feelings during the story.

Answer

'I felt...' or 'It made me feel...' let you naturally add an emotional reaction, which strengthens the content of your response.

#331 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Why is describing a general habit instead of one event a common mistake?

Answer

Prompts usually ask about a specific occasion. Saying 'I always go camping' instead of describing one particular camping trip misses the task requirement.

#332 · Talking About A Personal Experience

What tense should you use consistently in this task?

Answer

Use consistent past tense throughout, since you are describing something that already happened.

#333 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Is it acceptable to invent a story if you cannot think of a real one?

Answer

Yes. A plausible invented story that fits the prompt is perfectly acceptable and is scored the same as a true story.

#334 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Why is vagueness a common weakness in this task?

Answer

A story with no concrete details, such as no place, time, or specific action, sounds generic and does not fully develop the content score.

#335 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Give examples of useful time markers for this task.

Answer

'Last summer,' 'A few years ago,' and 'When I was younger' help place your story clearly in time for the listener.

#336 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Why does adding a small sensory or personal detail help your response?

Answer

A specific detail, like the smell of the campfire or the name of a friend, makes the story feel real and adds richness beyond a bare outline.

#337 · Talking About A Personal Experience

What happens if you spend too long setting the scene?

Answer

You may run out of time before reaching the ending of your story, leaving the response feeling incomplete. Balance your time across the beginning, middle, and end.

#338 · Talking About A Personal Experience

How should you use your 60 seconds of preparation?

Answer

Quickly decide which specific event to describe and outline a beginning, middle, and end so you are not improvising the whole structure while speaking.

#339 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Give phrases showing cause and effect useful for this task.

Answer

'As a result' and 'Because of this' help you connect an event to its outcome, adding logical structure to your story.

#340 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Why is answering a different question than what was asked a serious mistake?

Answer

If the prompt asks about a challenge you overcame and you describe an unrelated happy memory, you fail to fulfill the actual task.

#341 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Give a phrase for expressing a lesson learned.

Answer

'Since then, I have learned that...' is a natural way to close your story by reflecting on what the experience taught you.

#342 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Why do filler words like 'um' and 'like' hurt your score?

Answer

Excessive filler words reduce fluency and make your response harder to follow, lowering your listenability score even if your vocabulary is strong.

#343 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Should you prioritize grammar accuracy or continuing to speak?

Answer

Prioritize continuing to speak smoothly. A brief grammar mistake is less damaging than stopping to correct yourself repeatedly.

#344 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Give sequencing phrases for organizing the story clearly.

Answer

'To begin with,' 'Next,' and 'In the end' clearly mark the different stages of your story for the listener.

#345 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Why is repeating the same sentence structure throughout a weakness?

Answer

Using only 'I went... I saw... I did...' repeatedly limits your demonstrated vocabulary and grammatical range.

#346 · Talking About A Personal Experience

How can varied vocabulary strengthen this response?

Answer

Using different descriptive words instead of repeating the same adjective, such as varying 'nice' with 'memorable' or 'exciting,' shows stronger word choice.

#347 · Talking About A Personal Experience

What common themes appear in this task's prompts?

Answer

Prompts often ask about travel, an achievement, a challenge, or a memorable event, so having flexible stories ready for these themes helps.

#348 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Does this task use a picture?

Answer

No, this task presents a written or spoken prompt describing the type of experience to talk about, with no image shown.

#349 · Talking About A Personal Experience

Why is preparing a few flexible personal stories in advance useful?

Answer

A few adaptable stories, such as an achievement or a travel memory, can be reshaped to answer many different specific prompts on test day.

#350 · Talking About A Personal Experience

What structural balance should you aim for given the equal 60/60 timing?

Answer

Since preparation and response time are equal, use the full 60 seconds of prep to plan a complete beginning, middle, and end rather than starting to speak immediately.

#351 · Describing A Scene

How much preparation and response time do you get for Speaking Task 3, Describing a Scene?

Answer

You get 30 seconds to prepare and 60 seconds to respond, and one picture is shown for this task.

#352 · Describing A Scene

What is the basic goal of this task?

Answer

Describe the picture shown on screen in detail, covering the overall scene as well as specific elements within it.

#353 · Describing A Scene

What order should you generally describe the picture in?

Answer

Start with a general overview of the scene, then move into specific details such as people, objects, and actions.

#354 · Describing A Scene

Give spatial vocabulary useful for this task.

Answer

'In the foreground,' 'in the background,' 'on the left,' and 'in the centre' help you clearly locate elements within the picture.

#355 · Describing A Scene

Give phrases for describing people in the picture.

Answer

'Appears to be' or 'seems to be' let you describe a person's age, mood, or activity without overstating certainty.

#356 · Describing A Scene

Why is only naming objects a weak strategy?

Answer

Simply listing nouns like 'a table, a chair, a lamp' without description does not demonstrate vocabulary range or detailed observation.

#357 · Describing A Scene

Why should you describe actions, not just objects?

Answer

Describing what people are doing, not only what is present, gives a fuller and more dynamic picture and uses more varied grammar.

#358 · Describing A Scene

Give a phrase for describing an action in progress.

Answer

'The man is carrying a box' uses present continuous tense to describe an ongoing action clearly visible in the picture.

#359 · Describing A Scene

Why should you avoid guessing wildly beyond what the picture shows?

Answer

For this task, stick to observable details. Inventing an unrelated backstory moves away from the goal of accurate description.

#360 · Describing A Scene

How should you use your 30 seconds of preparation?

Answer

Quickly scan the whole picture to identify the main elements, so you have a mental list of details ready before you start speaking.

#361 · Describing A Scene

What grammar tense is most useful for describing an ongoing scene?

Answer

Present continuous tense, such as 'is walking' or 'are talking,' fits actions happening in the picture at that moment.

#362 · Describing A Scene

Give a phrase for describing the mood or atmosphere of a scene.

Answer

'It looks like a relaxed outdoor setting' or 'The scene appears busy' add a layer beyond simple object description.

#363 · Describing A Scene

What should you do if you run out of new details before time is up?

Answer

Add smaller observations, such as colours, approximate numbers, or clothing details, to keep describing until the 60 seconds end.

#364 · Describing A Scene

What is one efficient way to organize your description?

Answer

Move systematically, for example from top to bottom or left to right, so you cover the picture thoroughly without repeating yourself.

#365 · Describing A Scene

Give hedging language for details you are not fully certain about.

Answer

'It looks like' or 'It could be' let you describe an ambiguous detail without claiming false certainty.

#366 · Describing A Scene

Why is pausing to think mid-response a problem?

Answer

A silent pause interrupts fluency. It is better to keep describing visible details continuously rather than stopping to plan further.

#367 · Describing A Scene

What kinds of details can help you fill the full 60 seconds?

Answer

Colours, approximate quantities, clothing, and background objects are useful additional details when the main action has already been described.

#368 · Describing A Scene

Give a phrase for describing weather or setting in a picture.

Answer

'It appears to be a sunny day' or 'This looks like a busy street' set the overall context of the scene.

#369 · Describing A Scene

Why is overusing 'there is' and 'there are' a weakness?

Answer

Relying only on 'there is/are' repeatedly limits your sentence variety. Mix in other structures like 'I can see' or descriptive verbs.

#370 · Describing A Scene

Give quantity vocabulary useful for describing groups of people or objects.

Answer

'A few,' 'several,' and 'a large group of' help describe approximate numbers naturally without needing an exact count.

#371 · Describing A Scene

Does the picture remain visible while you respond?

Answer

Yes, the picture stays on screen during your response, so you can continue to look at it and add new details as you speak.

#372 · Describing A Scene

Should you try to invent a story about the picture in this task?

Answer

No, the goal is accurate description of what is visible, not storytelling. Save prediction and speculation for the tasks that ask for it.

#373 · Describing A Scene

Give a phrase useful for comparing two elements within the same picture.

Answer

'Unlike the man on the left, the woman on the right is standing' helps you organize your description by contrasting different parts of the scene.

#374 · Describing A Scene

Why is stopping early before the 60 seconds end a mistake?

Answer

Ending early leaves potential content and fluency marks on the table. Keep observing and describing new details until time runs out.

#375 · Describing A Scene

What is one way to practise for this task at home?

Answer

Practise describing random photographs out loud for 60 seconds, moving from general overview to specific detail, to build speed and vocabulary.

#376 · Making Predictions

How much preparation and response time do you get for Speaking Task 4, Making Predictions?

Answer

You get 30 seconds to prepare and 60 seconds to respond, and one picture is shown showing a scene frozen in the middle of an action.

#377 · Making Predictions

What is the core requirement of this task?

Answer

Predict what is likely to happen next based on cues in the picture, rather than only describing what is currently visible.

#378 · Making Predictions

What kinds of picture details can help you form predictions?

Answer

Look at posture, facial expressions, nearby objects, and the overall setting for clues about what is about to happen.

#379 · Making Predictions

Give prediction language useful in this task.

Answer

'Is likely to,' 'is probably going to,' and 'will probably' all clearly signal that you are predicting a future outcome.

#380 · Making Predictions

Why is only describing the picture a common mistake in this task?

Answer

This task specifically asks for predictions about what happens next, not a description of the current scene, which is Task 3's job.

#381 · Making Predictions

How can you fill the 60 seconds if you only have one obvious prediction?

Answer

Make multiple predictions covering both the near future and a further consequence, giving your response more depth.

#382 · Making Predictions

Give hedging language for uncertain predictions.

Answer

'Might,' 'could,' and 'it's possible that' let you predict without overstating certainty about an ambiguous picture.

#383 · Making Predictions

What verb forms are most useful for predictions?

Answer

Future forms such as 'will' and 'going to' clearly mark that you are talking about what happens after the moment shown in the picture.

#384 · Making Predictions

Why should your predictions not contradict visible details in the picture?

Answer

A prediction should logically follow from what is shown. Contradicting an obvious detail, like predicting rain in a sunny picture, weakens coherence.

#385 · Making Predictions

Give a phrase for showing consequence in a prediction.

Answer

'As a result, she will probably...' links one predicted event to a further outcome, extending your response naturally.

#386 · Making Predictions

Why is giving only a one-sentence prediction and stopping a weakness?

Answer

A single short prediction does not develop enough content. Explain your reasoning and add a follow-up prediction to extend the response.

#387 · Making Predictions

Give a phrase for explaining your reasoning behind a prediction.

Answer

'I think this because...' lets you justify your prediction using specific details from the picture.

#388 · Making Predictions

Give a phrase for offering an alternative possible outcome.

Answer

'Another possibility is...' or 'One outcome could be...' let you offer a second prediction, showing flexible thinking.

#389 · Making Predictions

Why is describing what already happened a mistake in this task?

Answer

The task asks about the future from the moment shown, not events before the picture was taken.

#390 · Making Predictions

How should you use the picture's context to justify predictions?

Answer

Use details of the setting, the people, and nearby objects to explain why your prediction makes sense given the situation shown.

#391 · Making Predictions

Give a conditional sentence useful for this task.

Answer

'If she keeps running at this pace, she will likely win the race' links a visible action to a probable future result.

#392 · Making Predictions

What should you avoid if you run out of new predictions?

Answer

Avoid repeating the same prediction in slightly different words. Instead, add reasoning or a related secondary prediction to keep developing the response.

#393 · Making Predictions

How should you use your 30 seconds of preparation for this task?

Answer

Quickly identify the clearest cue in the picture and think of both a short-term and a longer-term prediction before speaking.

#394 · Making Predictions

Give language for expressing different levels of certainty.

Answer

'Definitely,' 'probably,' and 'might possibly' let you show a range of confidence across different predictions in the same response.

#395 · Making Predictions

Why should predictions stay tied to picture content rather than fantastical?

Answer

An overly imaginative prediction unrelated to any visible detail, such as an alien arriving, sounds disconnected and does not use the picture meaningfully.

#396 · Making Predictions

Should you try to speak quickly to cover more predictions?

Answer

No, keep a steady natural pace. Clarity and coherence matter more than the number of predictions squeezed into the response.

#397 · Making Predictions

Is the same picture available throughout your response?

Answer

Yes, the picture remains visible throughout preparation and response, so you can refer back to it as you speak.

#398 · Making Predictions

Give a phrase for predicting someone's reaction.

Answer

'She will likely feel relieved once the results come in' predicts an emotional reaction based on the visible situation.

#399 · Making Predictions

How is this task different from Task 3, Describing a Scene?

Answer

Task 3 asks you to describe what is currently visible, while Task 4 asks you to predict what happens after the moment shown.

#400 · Making Predictions

How can you practise for this task outside of test prep materials?

Answer

Look at random photos and practise saying out loud what you think will happen next, building comfort with prediction language quickly.

#401 · Comparing And Persuading

How much preparation and response time do you get for Speaking Task 5, Comparing and Persuading?

Answer

You get 60 seconds to prepare and 60 seconds to respond, and two pictures are shown for this task.

#402 · Comparing And Persuading

What is the core requirement of this task?

Answer

You must choose one of two options shown in the pictures and persuade someone, often a specific person named in the prompt, to agree with your choice.

#403 · Comparing And Persuading

Why should you commit to a choice quickly?

Answer

Describing both options neutrally without ever choosing one weakens Task Fulfillment. Pick a side early and build your case around it.

#404 · Comparing And Persuading

Give comparative vocabulary useful for this task.

Answer

'More,' 'less,' 'better than,' and 'cheaper than' allow you to directly compare the two options shown.

#405 · Comparing And Persuading

Give a persuasive phrase for recommending your choice.

Answer

'I would definitely recommend option B' or 'The clear choice is...' state your recommendation with confidence.

#406 · Comparing And Persuading

How many supporting reasons should you aim to give?

Answer

Aim for at least two distinct reasons that favour your chosen option, rather than one reason repeated in different words.

#407 · Comparing And Persuading

Give a contrast phrase useful for comparing the two options.

Answer

'Unlike option A, option B offers free delivery' directly contrasts a weakness of one option with a strength of the other.

#408 · Comparing And Persuading

Why should you address the person mentioned in the prompt directly?

Answer

Many prompts frame this as persuading a specific friend or colleague. Speaking as if directly to that person makes your response more natural.

#409 · Comparing And Persuading

Give a phrase for addressing your audience directly.

Answer

'I think you'll agree that this option is more convenient' speaks directly to the listener you are trying to persuade.

#410 · Comparing And Persuading

Give comparative and superlative adjective forms useful here.

Answer

'Cheaper,' 'more convenient,' and 'the best option' let you clearly rank the two choices against each other.

#411 · Comparing And Persuading

How should you use your 60 seconds of preparation?

Answer

Quickly compare the two pictures, choose your side, and note two or three comparison points before you begin speaking.

#412 · Comparing And Persuading

Give a phrase for briefly acknowledging the other option before dismissing it.

Answer

'While option A does look appealing, option B is still the better choice because...' shows balanced thinking while staying firm on your recommendation.

#413 · Comparing And Persuading

Why must you end with a clear final recommendation?

Answer

Forgetting to state your final choice clearly at the end can make your position feel unresolved, even after strong comparisons in the middle.

#414 · Comparing And Persuading

Give a phrase for emphasizing a key benefit of your chosen option.

Answer

'What makes this option stand out is its lower price' highlights the strongest advantage driving your recommendation.

#415 · Comparing And Persuading

Why is spending too long describing the pictures a mistake?

Answer

This task rewards persuasion, not just description. Move quickly from noting details to building your argument for one option.

#416 · Comparing And Persuading

Give a phrase linking a reason to your recommendation.

Answer

'Because it includes free maintenance, I recommend this plan' connects a specific fact directly to your final advice.

#417 · Comparing And Persuading

Why is choosing an option but never explaining why a mistake?

Answer

Stating a preference without supporting reasons does not demonstrate the persuasive reasoning this task is designed to assess.

#418 · Comparing And Persuading

Give cost or value vocabulary useful for this task.

Answer

'A better deal,' 'more cost-effective,' and 'worth the extra money' are useful phrases when comparing price and value.

#419 · Comparing And Persuading

Why should you keep persuading right until the end of the response?

Answer

Trailing off with weak or repeated content near the end reduces the overall strength of your argument. Keep adding value until time is up.

#420 · Comparing And Persuading

Are both pictures visible during your response?

Answer

Yes, both pictures remain on screen throughout your response, so you can refer to specific visible details from each.

#421 · Comparing And Persuading

How can daily practice help with this task's structure?

Answer

Practising comparing everyday choices, like two restaurants or two phones, builds quick fluency in switching between description and persuasion.

#422 · Comparing And Persuading

Give a linking word for adding a reason using cause.

Answer

'Since' or 'because' connect a fact about one option directly to why it is the better choice, strengthening your argument's logic.

#423 · Comparing And Persuading

Why is repeating the same point in different words a weakness?

Answer

It can signal that you have run out of genuine reasons. Instead, look for a second, distinct advantage to mention.

#424 · Comparing And Persuading

What structure works well for this task overall?

Answer

Briefly note both options, state your choice, give two distinct reasons with details from the pictures, and close with a firm recommendation.

#425 · Comparing And Persuading

Why is this task different from Task 3, Describing a Scene?

Answer

Task 3 only asks for description of one picture, while Task 5 requires comparing two pictures and building a persuasive argument for one over the other.

#426 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

How much preparation and response time do you get for Speaking Task 6, Dealing with a Difficult Situation?

Answer

You get 60 seconds to prepare and 60 seconds to respond, and no picture is shown for this task.

#427 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

What kind of scenario appears in this task?

Answer

You are given an awkward or difficult situation, such as needing to cancel plans, deliver bad news, or explain a mistake to someone.

#428 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why should you acknowledge the difficulty of the situation first?

Answer

Acknowledging the awkwardness shows empathy and social awareness before you move into your explanation or response.

#429 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Give a diplomatic phrase for delivering unwelcome news.

Answer

'I'm afraid that...' or 'Unfortunately, I have to...' soften the delivery of bad news while staying clear.

#430 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Give a phrase for apologizing in this task.

Answer

'I'm really sorry about this' or 'I apologize for the inconvenience' show sincerity when addressing a problem you caused or are reporting.

#431 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why is sounding overly blunt a common mistake here?

Answer

Delivering bad news too bluntly without softening language can come across as rude, even if the message itself is accurate.

#432 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why should your response include a solution, not just an apology?

Answer

An apology alone leaves the situation unresolved. Offering an alternative or next step shows you are actively addressing the problem.

#433 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Give a phrase for offering an alternative solution.

Answer

'As an alternative, I suggest we reschedule for next week' proposes a concrete next step rather than leaving the issue unresolved.

#434 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why is avoiding the actual difficult message a mistake?

Answer

Spending your time on small talk instead of addressing the core issue described in the prompt fails to fulfill the task.

#435 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why is imagining you're speaking directly to the person in the scenario useful?

Answer

It keeps your tone natural and personal, similar to how you would actually deliver this message in real life.

#436 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Give a phrase for softening bad news.

Answer

'I wish I had better news, but...' prepares the listener for disappointing information in a considerate way.

#437 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Give an example of a polite modal verb useful in this task.

Answer

'Would' or 'could' soften statements, for example 'Would it be possible to reschedule?' instead of a blunt demand.

#438 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why is ending abruptly without resolution a mistake?

Answer

A response that states the problem but offers no closing or next step feels incomplete and unresolved for the listener.

#439 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

What is a useful four-part structure for this task?

Answer

Acknowledge the problem, briefly explain the situation, propose a solution, and close politely, all within the 60 second response.

#440 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Give a phrase offering reassurance.

Answer

'I promise to make it up to you' or 'I'll do my best to fix this' close the response on a constructive, reassuring note.

#441 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why is forgetting to answer what the prompt actually asked a serious mistake?

Answer

Some prompts ask you to explain a decision or make a request specifically. Straying from that exact requirement weakens Task Fulfillment.

#442 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why should you keep a calm, respectful tone even in a tense scenario?

Answer

Sounding frustrated or overly emotional does not match the professional, considerate tone this task is designed to test.

#443 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Give a phrase for taking responsibility for a mistake.

Answer

'It's my fault that the order was delayed' directly and honestly acknowledges responsibility, which sounds mature and genuine.

#444 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why is talking too briefly a weakness in this task?

Answer

A response that finishes well before 60 seconds are up leaves content and fluency marks unearned. Develop your explanation and solution more fully.

#445 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

How should you use your 60 seconds of preparation for this task?

Answer

Plan the explanation of what went wrong and the proposed solution as two separate parts, so you don't mix them together while speaking.

#446 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Give a phrase for expressing understanding of the other person's feelings.

Answer

'I understand you must be frustrated about this' shows empathy before you continue with your explanation or solution.

#447 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why is sounding scripted rather than natural a weakness?

Answer

A response that feels memorized rather than conversational can come across as stiff. Aim for a natural, flexible tone.

#448 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

What tense pattern works well for this task's structure?

Answer

Use past tense to explain what went wrong, then shift to future or conditional forms when describing your proposed solution.

#449 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Does this task use a picture?

Answer

No, the scenario is given as text on screen describing the situation, with no image shown.

#450 · Dealing With A Difficult Situation

Why is practising common awkward scenarios useful preparation?

Answer

Rehearsing situations like cancelling plans, admitting a mistake, or making a complaint builds ready phrases for the real difficult situation prompt.

#451 · Expressing Opinions

How much preparation and response time do you get for Speaking Task 7, Expressing Opinions?

Answer

You get 30 seconds to prepare and 90 seconds to respond, and no picture is shown for this task.

#452 · Expressing Opinions

What kind of prompt appears in this task?

Answer

You are given a general topic or question and asked to express and support your own opinion about it.

#453 · Expressing Opinions

Where should you state your opinion in the response?

Answer

State your opinion clearly in your very first sentence so the listener knows your position immediately.

#454 · Expressing Opinions

Give an opinion phrase useful for opening this response.

Answer

'In my opinion' or 'Personally, I think' are direct, natural ways to begin stating your position on the topic.

#455 · Expressing Opinions

How many distinct reasons should you aim to give?

Answer

Aim for at least two distinct reasons that support your opinion, rather than one reason repeated in different words.

#456 · Expressing Opinions

Give reason connector phrases useful for this task.

Answer

'Firstly' and 'Secondly' clearly organize your two main supporting reasons for the listener.

#457 · Expressing Opinions

Why is not stating a clear opinion a serious mistake?

Answer

This task specifically requires a stated position. A response that only discusses the topic generally without an opinion fails Task Fulfillment.

#458 · Expressing Opinions

Why is switching sides mid-response a problem?

Answer

Starting with one opinion and drifting toward the opposite view confuses the listener and weakens coherence.

#459 · Expressing Opinions

Why should you use a specific example to support your opinion?

Answer

A personal experience or concrete example makes an abstract opinion more convincing and demonstrates fuller content development.

#460 · Expressing Opinions

Give a phrase for introducing an example in this task.

Answer

'For instance' or 'To give an example' let you follow a general reason with specific supporting detail.

#461 · Expressing Opinions

Give varied connector words useful throughout this response.

Answer

'Although,' 'because,' 'since,' and 'therefore' let you link ideas with more sophisticated grammar than simple listing.

#462 · Expressing Opinions

Why is running out of things to say a common weakness in this task?

Answer

At 90 seconds, this is a long response. Plan two or three main points during preparation so you have enough content to reach the end.

#463 · Expressing Opinions

How should you use your 30 seconds of preparation?

Answer

Quickly decide your opinion and think of two or three supporting points so you are not searching for ideas while already speaking.

#464 · Expressing Opinions

Give a phrase for briefly acknowledging an opposing view.

Answer

'Some people might disagree, but...' shows balanced thinking while keeping your own opinion firm.

#465 · Expressing Opinions

Why is repeating the same reason in different words a weakness?

Answer

It signals a lack of genuine developed content. Instead, aim for a second, truly distinct supporting point.

#466 · Expressing Opinions

Give a phrase for closing this response.

Answer

'Overall' or 'For these reasons' signal that you are summarizing and restating your opinion before finishing.

#467 · Expressing Opinions

What tense pattern works well for this task?

Answer

Use present tense for stating your general opinion, and past tense when describing a supporting personal example.

#468 · Expressing Opinions

Why is speaking too fast to finish early a mistake?

Answer

Finishing well before 90 seconds are up wastes an opportunity to develop content further and may suggest underdeveloped ideas.

#469 · Expressing Opinions

Why is careful pacing especially important for this task?

Answer

Since this is one of the longer speaking responses, save some points for the middle and end so the response does not front-load everything and then go silent.

#470 · Expressing Opinions

Give a phrase for expressing strength of opinion.

Answer

'I am convinced that...' or 'Without a doubt...' show confidence in your stated position.

#471 · Expressing Opinions

Why is giving only one reason and then going silent a serious weakness?

Answer

A single reason followed by silence for the remaining time leaves the response feeling unfinished and underdeveloped.

#472 · Expressing Opinions

What overall structure works well for this task?

Answer

Treat it like a short spoken essay: state your opinion, give two reasons with an example, briefly acknowledge the other side, and conclude.

#473 · Expressing Opinions

Does this task include a picture?

Answer

No, the opinion topic is given as a text prompt on screen, with no accompanying image.

#474 · Expressing Opinions

Give a phrase linking a personal example back to your opinion.

Answer

'This is why I believe...' connects your supporting example directly back to the opinion you stated at the start.

#475 · Expressing Opinions

Why is practising timing yourself out loud especially useful for this task?

Answer

Since this task has the longest response time, timing yourself helps you learn how much content actually fills 90 seconds comfortably.

#476 · Describing An Unusual Situation

How much preparation and response time do you get for Speaking Task 8, Describing an Unusual Situation?

Answer

You get 30 seconds to prepare and 60 seconds to respond, and one picture is shown for this task.

#477 · Describing An Unusual Situation

What is the core requirement of this task?

Answer

Identify and describe what is unusual, strange, or out of place in the picture, not just describe the scene generally.

#478 · Describing An Unusual Situation

What should you identify first when you see the picture?

Answer

Identify exactly what makes the picture unusual or out of place before you start describing other, more ordinary details.

#479 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Give vocabulary useful for describing oddity in this task.

Answer

'Strangely,' 'unusually,' 'surprisingly,' and 'out of place' all help highlight the odd element in the picture.

#480 · Describing An Unusual Situation

What is a useful structure for describing the unusual element?

Answer

Describe the normal expectation first, then explain how the picture differs from it, making the contrast clear to the listener.

#481 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Give a contrast phrase useful for this task.

Answer

'Normally, you would expect..., but instead...' clearly sets up the expected situation before revealing the unusual twist.

#482 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Why is describing the picture generally without pointing out the unusual part a mistake?

Answer

This task specifically requires identifying what is strange or unexpected, not just describing the scene as in Task 3.

#483 · Describing An Unusual Situation

What should you do if more than one unusual element is present?

Answer

Describe each unusual element you notice, since covering multiple odd details helps fill the response with strong content.

#484 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Give a phrase for speculating about the cause of the unusual situation.

Answer

'Perhaps this happened because...' or 'It's possible that...' let you extend your response by guessing at an explanation.

#485 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Why is missing the most obvious unusual detail a serious weakness?

Answer

If your response overlooks the main odd element and only discusses minor details, it fails to fulfill the core task requirement.

#486 · Describing An Unusual Situation

What tense pattern is useful for this task?

Answer

Use present tense to describe the image, and conditional or modal forms when speculating about why the situation might have occurred.

#487 · Describing An Unusual Situation

How should you use your 30 seconds of preparation?

Answer

Scan the picture quickly to spot every strange detail before you begin speaking, so you don't miss the main odd element.

#488 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Give a phrase for expressing surprise about a detail.

Answer

'What's surprising is that...' or 'It's odd that...' clearly signal you are highlighting an unexpected element.

#489 · Describing An Unusual Situation

What should you do if you run out of things to say after mentioning the obvious detail?

Answer

Add description of the setting and normal elements for contrast, or speculate about a possible cause to extend the response.

#490 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Give a phrase for describing an element that seems out of place.

Answer

'This looks out of place' or 'This doesn't seem to belong here' directly point out the odd element in the scene.

#491 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Why is inventing an unusual detail that isn't in the picture a mistake?

Answer

Your description should be based on what is actually visible. Adding a fabricated detail can make your response inaccurate and confusing.

#492 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Give a phrase useful for speculating with an appropriate level of uncertainty.

Answer

'Maybe' or 'One explanation might be that...' hedge your speculation appropriately since you cannot know the real cause for certain.

#493 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Give modal verbs useful for expressing possibility in this task.

Answer

'Might,' 'could,' and 'may' work well when speculating about why the unusual situation exists in the picture.

#494 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Why is describing the unusual element too briefly a weakness?

Answer

Mentioning the odd detail in one short sentence and then going silent leaves the response underdeveloped for the full 60 seconds.

#495 · Describing An Unusual Situation

What three elements can you combine to fill the full 60 seconds?

Answer

Combine straightforward description, contrast with what is normally expected, and speculation about the cause to build a fuller response.

#496 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Does the picture stay visible throughout this task?

Answer

Yes, the picture remains visible while you prepare and while you respond, so you can refer back to specific details.

#497 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Give a phrase for describing a person's reaction within the unusual scene.

Answer

'The man in the picture looks confused' or 'She seems surprised' describe how people in the scene appear to be reacting.

#498 · Describing An Unusual Situation

Why is stating something looks unusual without explaining why a common weakness?

Answer

Simply saying 'this is strange' without explaining what makes it strange leaves the listener without the reasoning this task is designed to test.

#499 · Describing An Unusual Situation

How is this task different from Task 3, Describing a Scene?

Answer

Task 3 asks for a general, accurate description, while Task 8 specifically requires identifying and explaining what is unusual or unexpected.

#500 · Describing An Unusual Situation

What is a good way to practise for this task outside test materials?

Answer

Practise noticing unusual or funny details in everyday photos and describing out loud what makes them strange, to build this skill quickly.
